The Combined Attack on Elder Minter. The Combined Attack on Eider Minter. (Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.)

DUNNSVILLE, December 22.—Elder William Minter, a most inoffensive yet able and zeelous minister of the Gospel, who for twelve months past has been preaching for the Rappahannock church here and other churches elsewhere, and engaged for another year, a few weeks since brought his family from Martinsville and now occupies Berrymond, the former residence of the late Judge Garnett, of Essex. This morning, as usual, the Elder called for his mail and "other periodicals," &c., little dreaming of offence toward mortal kind, when, to and behold, he was made the subject of an open-day assault, and that, too, principally from members of his own church and charge, male and female. So violent was the assault that he was forced to seek his home for refuge, and even there he was pursued with weapons, which for a long time will keep the monster wolf at bay. Carts and buggles and every means of transportation was made to do service in carrying every kind of contribution to the necessities, pleasure, or taste of the entire household. Even when calling for water it was not given him from a sponge dipped in vinegar, but the acid was given in old bottles and ugly, rusty lugs. It would be superfluous to mention all of the solids and delicacles contributed. Contributors were not trying to outdo each other, but united cheerfully in piling on the agony. All kinds of canned fruits, vogetables, green appleain a word, something of everything which could tempt and suitate the appetite of the entire household from the head to the youngest. Ind not the Supreme Court ceded that it was an illeast body, the jury tates that it would have intisted such measures a would have resulted in the permanent abatement of this evil, and would have returned so many indictments that the people of the State could have been appailed.

Regarding the local municipal government he jury say the testimony snowed that assessments levied on a number of carporations by an political manager amounted to $1,000,000 unually, and that a large number of employees of the municipality had been assessed certain percentages of their salaries for political purposes. The report, in closing, reviews the condition of the various departments and especially commends the educational department.

Judge Wallace, in accepting the report, reviewed the proceedings leading up to the appointment of the elisor, stating that the coroner and the sheriff were judicially and openly challenged and announced to be incompetent and disqualitied, and that their offices were to have been investigated. He criticised the special court for overlooking this point, further holding that prior decisions of the Supreme Court were uterly inconsistent. In closing Judge Wallace and:

One of the originally-appointed commissioners is dead, one has resigned, and Commissioner Morrison's term or office will expire January ist before the Senate reassembles. Owing to the peculiar bhraseology of the creative act the terms of the commissioners expire at the end of the period for which they are appointed, instead of continuing, as is usual, until the qualification of their successors, so that when Commissioner Morrison's term of office ceases, January 1st, the commission will consist of but two members. Some fears have been expressed that the commission will be seriously crippled and prevented from discharging its full functions after the first of the year, owing to this state of affairs, but it appears from a perusal of the act that the emergency is guarded against by a paragraph in section 11, providing that no vacancy in the commission shall impair the right of the remaining commissioners to exercise all the

Mr. Bowers is a native of Richmond, Va. He saks the Court to annul a marriage ceremony performed between him and Elis Bigelow on the ground that at the time he was already married. They were driven to the house of the Bigelows, it is charged, where Mr. Bowers was placed in a room. The elder Bigelow kept guard with a pistol, it is alleged, while his son procured a marriage Hoenas for Mr. Bowers and Miss Bigelow and a minister to perform the ceremony.
